San Francisco – January 28, 2008 – Jones Lang LaSalle (NYSE:JLL) announces the addition of Shamm Kelly as Senior Vice President, further expanding the firm’s presence in San Francisco through tenant and landlord representation and support of all service offerings.

“A top priority for Jones Lang LaSalle is to be the best in every market segment in which we compete,” said Elizabeth Hearle, Northern California Market Director, Jones Lang LaSalle. “We are accomplishing this by adding high-profile talent in key markets across the country and are thrilled to add a high-caliber, local like Shamm to our San Francisco business.”

Ms. Kelly joins the firm from Colliers International, having spent two decades there providing a wide range of brokerage services in the San Francisco Bay Area, and consistently performing among the firm’s top producers.

During her more than 20 years of corporate real estate advisory services and general brokerage experience in the San Francisco Financial District, Ms. Kelly has represented tenants such as Burr, Pilger & Mayer, Silver Lake Financial, Hi5, and several GSA

She has advised and managed transactions in excess of 7 million square feet. Most recently, Ms. Kelly worked as a team member with the Rockefeller Group Development Corporation in its bid to design and develop the new landmark Transbay Transit Center and Transit Tower in downtown San Francisco.

"I'm excited to join the firm," said Ms. Kelly. "Jones Lang LaSalle has an incredible platform and the deep resources needed to serve our clients across the platform."
