Todd Robinette Joins

Jones Lang LaSalle in Northern California

Jones Lang LaSalle's plan to become the most comprehensive commercial real estate service provider in Northern California once again attracts region's top talent

San Francisco, May 7, 2007 -- Jones Lang LaSalle, Inc. announced that Todd Robinette, a 28-year veteran of the real estate industry with extensive expertise in commercial property management, has joined the firm as Senior Vice President & Regional Manager for the firm's property management operations in Northern California. Mr. Robinette will be based in the San Francisco office.

Mr. Robinette joins from Equity Office Properties Trust where, for the last eight years, he was a managing director in San Francisco with responsibility for property management and operations at 15 Class A office buildings totaling 5.7 million square feet. Before joining EOP in 1999, he spent 12 years with CB Commercial Management Services and its predecessor companies (now CB Richard Ellis) and, prior to that, spent three years as an asset manager with Bank of America Investment Real Estate.

"Todd has tremendous depth of expertise and experience in property operations and management and we're delighted to welcome him to the firm in Northern California where he will add to our already impressive capabilities," said Elizabeth Hearle, Managing Director, California-Operations. Ms. Hearle noted that Mr. Robinette is the sixth high profile addition to Jones Lang LaSalle's Northern California operation since the start of the year, adding that more are on the way. "Our goal in the region is to provide our clients with access to the best professionals in their class across the full spectrum of our services whether it is agency leasing, tenant representation, capital markets, investment sales, corporate property services, development and property management or any one of the 21 discrete services we provide in the region,” Hearle said.
