Palo Alto, CA, Feb. 8, 2007 - Jones Lang LaSalle, the global real estate services and money management firm, has announced that Rich Branning and Steve Levere, two top performing tenant representation brokers with nationwide clientele and reputations, have joined the firm's Silicon Valley office as Managing Directors.

Prior to joining Jones Lang LaSalle, Branning was Executive Vice President, Principal and co-head of Trammell Crow's Corporate Advisory Services Group in Silicon Valley. Prior to joining TCC, he was with The Staubach Company, where he earned the company's highest award - The Champion of Excellence.

In announcing the appointments, Erich Sengelmann who leads the office said that Jones Lang LaSalle's Silicon Valley team is now poised to provide major corporations as well as small cap clients with a broad spectrum of expertise across a range of industries including high tech, life science, software, medical devices and Internet companies as well as professional services firms. The appointments come hard on the heels of December's announcement that one of Silicon Valley's top performing brokers, Scott Mathisen, was to join Jones Lang LaSalle from CB Richard Ellis where he had spent 21 years. In addition, Chad Hutchinson and Anthony Guglielmi will be joining the firm as Associates from TCC.

"Jones Lang LaSalle's platform provides a truly integrated global suite of services that will further enhance both our high growth and small cap clients' real estate experience," said Rich Branning. Steve Levere concurred, adding, "More and more clients desire a single service relationship for their myriad of real estate needs and it was important for us to be with a firm that had single service capabilities and a strong commitment to the Valley as well as a global view."

The Silicon Valley office - which opened in December 2006 - represents the firm's latest expansion in Northern California. In recent weeks, the firm has also announced important additions to its Capital Markets and Strategic Consulting teams in Northern California, as well as to its tenant rep presence in San Francisco.

Jones Lang LaSalle has more than 600 employees in Northern California and manages nearly 30 million square feet of the area's most prestigious commercial real estate. In 2006, Jones Lang LaSalle professionals in Northern California completed nearly 50 million square feet of lease transactions and the firm's West Coast Capital Markets team completed more than $1 billion of investment sales including the sale of 180 Montgomery Street in San Francisco, Great America Plaza in Santa Clara and Sun Microsystems' campus in Newark. The firm was recently named to Fortune's list of the "100 Best Companies to Work For" and also appears on the San Francisco Business Times, "Best Places to Work in San Francisco" list.
