Jones Lang LaSalle Deepens Pacific Northwest Project and Development Services with Addition of Phillip Wood as Vice President

SEATTLE, March 2, 2010 – Jones Lang LaSalle announced today that Phillip Wood, a 25-year veteran of the commercial real estate market, has joined the company as Vice President and will lead the firm's Project and Development Services group in the Pacific Northwest. He is based in the company's downtown Seattle office.

"Phil is a highly respected and talented real estate professional with a wealth of expertise in project and development management including build-to-suit. He adds further depth to our team and will immediately benefit our growing client base in the Northwest," said Gary Danklefsen, Managing Director in charge of Jones Lang LaSalle's Pacific Northwest office.

Mr. Wood joins the firm from Trammell Crow Company where he was Northwest area leader for the firm's Healthcare Development practice. Prior to that, he was vice president and regional manager in Seattle and Portland for Bedford Property Investors, a REIT formed to own and develop suburban office and industrial buildings in the Western states.

Over his career, Mr. Wood has been responsible for the development of over 1.5 million square feet of office and medical space; over one million square feet of flex/industrial; over 250,000 square feet of retail and entitled and has sold more than 500 acres of commercial and residential land.

Mr. Wood is a member of NAIOP, the Bellevue Downtown Association and the Bellevue Boys & Girls Club, where he sits on the board. He also sits on the City of Redmond Economic Development Steering Committee and is a past president of the Newport Yacht Club.

Jones Lang LaSalle provides commercial real estate services for project management and development management programs including build-to-suit, occupancy planning and corporate relocations.
