SAN FRANCISCO, July 11, 2006 - David Churton and Erich Sengelmann have been named as International Directors for Jones Lang LaSalle (NYSE: JLL).

Churton, who along with Sengelmann co-leads the firm's growing Northern California practice, heads the agency leasing, property management, and local tenant leasing practices. Sengelmann handles comprehensive brokerage and consulting services in San Francisco and the Silicon Valley. He also serves on the prestigious Jones Lang LaSalle's Global Technology Specialty Board, a group that provides integrated solutions to technology companies all over the world.

Churton joined Jones Lang LaSalle in 2005 after a two-year sabbatical. Previously, he opened Insignia/ESG's San Francisco office in 1999, leaving the firm when it merged with CBRE. Mr. Churton holds a J.D. from the University of San Francisco, School of Law, and a B.S. from the University of California, Santa Barbara.

Sengelmann joined the firm in 1998 and has held various leadership positions including, most recently, managing Jones Lang LaSalle's Tenant Representation Group in the Northwest. Mr. Sengelmann is also on the Board of the San Francisco Sports Council, is a member of the Guardsmen and is an active participant in the Northern California chapter of CoreNet Global.

"Our International Directors are Jones Lang LaSalle's top people. They have contributed in a major way to the growth of the firm, they have shown leadership in their fields, and we know that they will continue to build sustained value for our clients and our shareholders in the coming years," said Colin Dyer, President and Chief Executive Officer of Jones Lang LaSalle.

Jones Lang LaSalle's Northern California presence has expanded significantly during the past year. The firm leases and/or manages nearly 30.5 million square feet of space in Northern California and now has professional staff serving as tenant representatives for several major Bay Area firms in the computer sciences, medical technology, and healthcare industries. In addition, several national and global leaders for the firm are headquartered in Northern California. Jones Lang LaSalle was recently named one of the best places to work in San Francisco.
